Victims may be reluctant to attend and are often absent. They may be more anxious and insecure than others, having fewer friends and often feeling unhappy and lonely. Victims can suffer from low self-esteem, low self-confidence and negative self-image, looking upon themselves as failures – feeling stupid, ashamed and unattractive.

Victims may present a variety of symptoms to health professionals, including fits, faints, vomiting, limb pains, paralysis, hyperventilation, visual symptoms, headaches, stomach aches, sleeping difficulties and sadness. Being bullied may lead to depression or, in the most serious cases, attempted suicide. It may lead to anxiety, depression, loneliness and lack of trust in adult life.

Raising and reporting concerns

Pupils may raise and report concerns they have about bullying by speaking directly to any member of staff at any point during the school day. At Shropshire Adventures Academy we aim to create a safe environment where pupils can openly discuss the cause of their bullying, without fear of further bullying or discrimination. Staff must ensure that they do not offer to keep any concerns raised confidential but work with the young person to address their concerns in an appropriate manner.

Parents and members of staff may also raise concerns and where this occurs, a staff member should speak to their line manager in the first instance. Any parent who feels that their concerns are not being sufficiently dealt with may follow the 'Complaints Procedure', details of which are in the parent booklet and available on request.

Dealing with bullying – prevention and intervention

Bullying will be discussed as part of the curriculum and will be directly challenged and discussed with pupils by staff. Participation in the annual anti-bullying week in November may form the basis of the taught curriculum. Staff will actively encourage young people to talk about bullies and bullying and about any challenged on behaviour that is tantamount to bullying from the low level persistent put-downs to physical, mental and verbal attacks. Guidance for appropriate ways to listen to young people is given in the Shropshire Adventures Academy 'Child Protection' Policy. Where our strategies do not resolve the problem, permanent exclusion may be justified in the most serious and persistent cases, particularly where violence is involved.

All incidents of bullying must be recorded. The entry should include the type of bullying, the sanctions and interventions put in place and the outcome. This information can then help us to monitor and review occurrences of bullying and the effectiveness of sanctions in place to address them.

Monitoring

By using information from our staff and records of concerns we will be able to monitor the effectiveness of our bullying policy. Success will be measured by:

- The number of incidents of bullying being recorded declines as each term progresses
- The number of repeat-offences of bullying are significantly less than first-offences
- There are no unresolved cases of bullying

There is no 'hierarchy' of bullying – all forms of bullying should be taken equally seriously and dealt with appropriately.

Early signs of bullying

Although the definition of bullying refers to the repetition of bullying behaviour over time, it is crucial to recognise, challenge and record all single incidents of bullying behaviour, including where a young person makes malicious, derogatory, prejudice-based or discriminatory remarks about another person. This allows bullying behaviour to be nipped in the bud. Where young people do not respond to early sanctions or interventions and bullying behaviour is repeated, staff can quickly recognise and respond to emerging patterns of behaviour.

All such incidents should be recorded and reported (for both the perpetrator and the victim) along with the sanctions imposed and interventions put in place. Logs must indicate (using the appropriate tick boxes) that the behaviour being recorded is 'bullying' and specify its 'type'. This allows for effective monitoring and analysis of bullying or potential early signs of bullying.

Identifying where bullying can occur

At Shropshire Adventures Academy, there is constant supervision of young people, and staff must be vigilant in identifying and dealing with any incidents of bullying as they occur. The school has the right to regulate the behaviours of young people (as far as reasonable) when they are off the school site, so staff are empowered to impose sanctions for inappropriate behaviour that takes place on the way to or from the centre, or in the case of bullying, over the internet or phone.

Both boys and girls bully others. Young people who bully others can come from any kind of family, regardless of social class or cultural background. Any young person can be bullied and certain factors can make bullying more likely:

- Lacking close friends at school
- Being shy
- An over-protective family environment
- Being from a different racial or ethnic group to the majority
- Being different in some obvious respect (e.g. stammering)
- Having Special Educational Needs or a disability.
- Behaving inappropriately, intruding or being an 'nuisance'
- Possessing expensive accessories such as mobile phones or computer games

As well as maintaining a high level of vigilance during the supervision of young person, staff who suspect that bullying is taking place outside of these times or online, should bring any concerns to the weekly staff meeting.

Although the primary purpose of this policy is to protect and defend the young people who come to Shropshire Adventures Academy, it is important to note that bullying can take place not only between pupils, but also between pupils and staff, parents and staff, or between staff.

Shropshire Adventures Academy is committed to offering a safe and healthy environment for the young people who attend activities in our centre and as a consequence of wider engagement with the organisation. Challenging bullying and early signs of bullying behaviour effectively will improve the safety and happiness of pupils, show that the organisation cares and make clear to bullies that the behaviour is unacceptable.

Safeguarding young people and vulnerable adults

Safeguarding issues can manifest themselves via child on child abuse. This is most likely to include, but not limited to: bullying (including cyber bullying), gender based violence/sexual assaults and sexting and prejudice-based or discriminatory bullying. Under the Children Act 1989 a bullying incident should be addressed as a child protection concern when there is 'reasonable cause to suspect that a child is suffering, or is likely to suffer, significant harm'. Where this is the case, school staff should report their concerns to the local authority children's social care. In any case where staff are concerned that a young person is being bullied, an incident form should be completed.

We may need to draw on a range of external services to support the young person who is experiencing bullying, or to tackle any underlying issue which has contributed to a young person engaging in bullying. Although bullying in itself is not a specific criminal offence in the UK, there are certain instances of harassment or threatening behaviour that could be deemed as such.<sup>2</sup> If staff feel that an offence may have been committed they should seek assistance from the police.

Definition of Bullying

Bullying is behaviour by an individual or group, repeated over time, that intentionally hurts another individual or group either physically or emotionally and that is difficult for victims to defend themselves against.

Bullying can take many forms, but the main types are:

- Physical – hitting, kicking, taking belongings
- Verbal - directly by name calling, insulting, making offensive, prejudice-based, discriminatory or homophobic remarks either directly or indirectly, being made the subject of malicious rumours, threats
- Emotional - exclusion from social peer groups, isolation from games and activities
- Cyber bullying – sending malicious emails, messages or text

Bullying may occur in relation to individual characteristics or situations, such as appearance, a health condition, or home circumstances. Bullying can be in relation to the 'protected characteristics' as set out in the Equality Act 2010. These are: age; disability; gender reassignment; marriage and civil partnership; pregnancy and maternity; race; religion or belief; sex; and sexual orientation.
